You will need to know your good work qualities. Everyone has them! Good work qualities are the strengths that you have to offer an employer. They come from your life, past jobs, education and what you do in your spare time. Even if you have not had a job, you have good work qualities.

If you are “GOOD AT” picking fruits and vegetables...

your GOOD WORK QUALITIES might be:

- HARD WORKING ■

You can decide on your good work qualities by thinking about the “things you are good at.” You might be good at taking care of children, fixing things, or helping others. Write down the “things you are good at.” They will give you clues to your good work qualities. Then, make a list of your good work qualities.
